THERE can be no doubt that to deal with educational matters in Hongkong involves some very great difficulties which may be said name as Wong-ab-sun, be cannot identify the to benatural, but it is also unquestionable that other difficulties which are purely artificial and unnatural stand in the way of the zealous Inspector of Schools, whose Report we extracted yesterday from the last Gazette. One of the first of the natural obstacles to improvement is the fact that the people whom we have to educate are Chinese, whose ideas. of education are quite different from our own. If they consent to receive our barbarian instruction, it is that they may turn it to practical account in dealing with barbarians, just as some of us study the Chinese language not for its own sake but to be of use to us in our every-day intercourse with the natives. However, the motive is not important if as a matter of fact the Chinese generally do accept the instruction we offer them. It appears that the number of boys at the Government Schools proper is on the when the defendant came up, slapped the child, increase, and This is so far satisfactory. With regard to those schools which receive Government grants-in-aid we shall have to Mrs. Marty. Mr. Marty is in France. more to say directly. The worst effect of the contempt for European education as such is be likely to teach English subjects well. An experiment of this sort is about to be tried for the first time, but Mr. STEWART is evidently apprehensive of the result. The Chinese will learn from a foreign master without any special feeling of contempt for his teaching. He has agreed to receive this particular instruction, and nothing else can be expected of a foreigner. > THE "MARIA LUZ" CASE. (Japan Mail.)

All doubts respecting the legality of the action of the Japanese Government in regard to the Maria Luz have been set at rest. The case was referred to the Law Officers of the British Government, who pronounced a decision favourable to that action, and thus the suspense in which we have been held in regard to those legal bearings of the case which it was impossible to resolve here with absolute confidence, is terminated. A CHILD'S HYMNS. Now the day of work is done, Now the quiet night's begun, And I lay my tired head Safe within my little bed. Saviour, hear me;

Be then near me, Till the hours of dark bave fled. I can see from where I lie, Glitt'ring in the dark blue sky. Here and there a little star Shining out so clear and high.

Saviour, bear mo; Be thou near me; Keep me safe beneath thine eye. If I've grieved thee through this day, Let my sin be washed away; Make me meek and pure and kind. Give me thy most hely mind. Saviour, hear mo; Be thou near me: >

Let me now thy mercy find. Thou art loving me above, And I will love thee for thy love; Thou didst leave thy throne on high, And for the come down to die. Thou wilt hear me, And be near me:

am safe while thou art nigh.

A DEVOUT RACE. Of all the races of France, the Leonards are, perhaps, the most devout. The new-house is blessed and the new -without it, the peasant believes the land would be barren. Only the extremity o illness, age, or infirmity is regarded as a sufficient dispensation from attending mass on Sundays and on the great feasts and festivals. His existence is tinctured with a sort of religious fatalism from his birth, but it is strongest in his last sickness and his death. He rarely calls a physician to the aid of nature, for he has no faith in human remedies, and prefers to rely on prayers to his favourite saint, and on special masses in church; so that the number of death-stricken persons in a parish may be known by the number of tapers burning on the altar of the Virgin each Sunday all the year round.-
